THE DISASTROUS EFFECT OF Natural Electricity Electric Health Resort IN Taliaferro County GEORGIA.

A leading scientist was sent to test the miraculous power of this great Georgia wonder, and he returned completely carried away with the wonderful electric forces and electric cures made in the electric shaft, all happily the result of electric shocks by natural electricity and drinking the electrified water at the electric Health Resort.

There is an old adage that "truth is stranger than fiction," and never was this truth more strikingly demonstrated than in the cures made at the Electric Health Resort since its discovery one year ago. While a great deal has been published in regard to this resort, the half has not been told of the speedy relief that has been obtained by suffering humanity, and we deem it our duty to owe the public to make known more of these wonderful cures which the Electric Health Resort affords.

Take, for instance, the case of Anna Day, of Washington, Ga., who was brought to the shaft (or electric room) supported on four pillows and suffering from indigestion and inflammatory rheumatism. Now here is the truth (for every word can be vouched for), the third day after entering the electric room she could eat and sleep, and the fourth day her husband made her new crutches, as the old ones, by actual measurement, were six inches too short, she being bent over very much on her arrival. The eighth day she walked without her crutches, and the second day after her arrival, and went home rejoicing, and is today well, washing and ironing for people in Washington, and we will say just here, Anna Day had been given up by leading physicians of Washington as a hopeless case and on her infirmity them of her intention of going to the electric resort. They told her she would die before she reached Little River. Her reply was: "I will die in the big road, then, for I am going." We were talking last week with a gentleman at the resort, Mr. Hammond, who walked the second day without the aid of crutches. He was afflicted with his speedy recovery. He was a man of great wealth, and he certainly exerted influence on his return. A gentleman from Massachusetts was cured a few weeks ago, and the cures have been so numerous that we cannot begin to list them. He knows of numbers of cases that he will send down on his return. One fact must be mentioned that every patient always becomes very sore before improving any, and to feel sore is a most favorable sign. And we will repeat, for the nervous and female complaints, as well as for rheumatism and indigestion, we defy the world to cure as many in six months as this natural electric cure will in four weeks.

[Extract from Augusta Chronicle.] Mr. Richard Hammond, of Collins, Edgefield County, South Carolina, well known in Augusta and South Carolina, was in the city yesterday, having just returned from Hill-man's Electric Shaft, of which so much professionally and personally. Mr. Hammond has been writing the remarkable cures produced by the shaft, and hundreds of remedies failing to afford relief of his sufferings, he determined on a visit to the shaft. He was afflicted with a stiffness in his left leg, and had not been in ten years. He was soon last night, and spoke of the shaft as a great discovery.

"Tuesday week," so he narrated, "I went up to give the shaft a test. I had been suffering from rheumatic pains. My left leg was almost a useless member of my body. I could scarcely use it at all, and the tightness of the skin and the apparent firmness of the flesh rendered my ailment doubly painful and aggravating."

His visit to the shaft.

Tuesday, a week ago, I went up to Hillman's Shaft, using a stick as support. After I spent a day there things looked blue; I had to bring another staff into use, and was compelled to hobble about on two sticks. Somehow, though, I had faith in the shaft, and kept up courage and remained. I did not feel anything like a genuine electric shock until Thursday, just before day. I was awakened at that time by a perceptible shock. However, relief did not immediately set in, though I felt much more comfortable and confident.

THE SICKNESS TAKEN ASIDE.
Sunday afternoon, however, I felt greatly relieved and threw away the sticks and easily walked without them. That night when I returned I was able to use my legs at pleasure, something I had not done for half a score of years. I was surprised to find my legs popping with a sound resembling the noise made when tearing cloth. The tightened skin commenced to relax, and I could easily gather it with my hands. Formerly I could not raise my leg, but now I can at will. I feel like a new man created by nature.

Mr. Hammond is greatly elated over the cure worked, and says he would not take any money consideration for the relief which has been given him during his short stay at the shaft. Mr. Hammond is a well known in Angusta, and his testimony will be of great value.
He has done business here with many of our merchants, among them Miller & Bussey, Garrett & Latimer and W. H. Nurnberger, and is personally and favorably known to them.

Mr. Hammond leaves for Edgefield, S. C., this morning. He tells of other remarkable cures having been worked at the shaft.

HON. FRANCIS COHEN TESTIMONIES.

Extract from Augusta Chronicle.

Mr. Cohen, a week ago, I went up to Hillman's shaft five hours, said: "I feel much improved, but will decide nothing until tomorrow." The next day I questioned him as to the result. He answered: "I slept uncommonly well last night. When I went to Hillman's my right leg was torpid and felt as if it were dead or wooden. It has been restored to a normal condition. It is all alive and can be used as if nothing had ever been the matter with it. I can stamp it vigorously and kick a football a hundred yards. It is a wonderful change.
Something has cured me. It was not the first time I was persuaded that it was something. If it is humbug, I would like the first one to have a plentiful supply of it."

A girl who could not get down the steps without assistance came out unaided with an ability to which she had long been a stranger.
These things I was cognizant of, and can testify to them.

Mr. Hillman gave me some interesting details and specific illustrations of the curative power of the shaft and the electric water. The public is familiar with the most noted cases. Suffice it that the lame have swung away their crutches, the blind have had their sight restored, and the cured and cured. All of these cures are hottish and easily verified. A few hours or days in contact with the magnetic currents of the shaft, or after drinking the electric mineral water, created these almost miraculous changes.
I am satisfied of the truth of the statements, and the men who have been cured are accessible.

The Cotton Movement.

The New York Financial Chronicle, in its weekly review of the cotton movement, says that for the week ending last Friday, the total receipts have reached 159,308 bales, against 188,824 bales last week, 202,550 bales the previous week and 213,002 bales three weeks since, making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1887, 4,144,858 bales against 3,914,842 bales for the same period of 1886-7, showing an increase since September 1, 1887, of 230,016 bales.

The exports for the week reach a total of 128,573 bales, of which 92,446 were to Great Britain, 2,840 to France and 43,728 to the rest of the continent. The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 392,900 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up 473 bales for the week, including 455 for consumption and 18 for speculation.

The imports into continental ports have been 20,000 bales. These figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight tonight of 155,880 bales as compared with the same date of 1887, an increase of 33,470 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1886 and a decrease of 44,789 bales as compared with 1885.

The total receipts from the plantations since September 1, 1887, are 4,582,832 bales, in 1886-7 were 4,290,034 bales; in 1885-6 were 4,270,355. Although the receipts of the outports the past week were 159,308 bales, the actual movement from the plantations was only 127,229 bales, the balance being taken from the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations were 138,731 bales, and for 1886, they were 129,533 bales. The increase in amount in sight as compared with last year, is 544,708 bales, the increase as compared with 1885-6 is 572,007 bales, and the increase over 1884-5 is 806,416 bales.

The Chronicle says that the speculation in cotton for future delivery at New York has been sluggish for the week under review and prices show some decline. The opening on Tuesday morning was comparatively steady on a strong Liverpool report, with the statistical position regarded as very favorable to the views of the bull party; but the receipts at the ports were unexpectedly few, exceeding the corresponding dates last year, and caused some selling to realize on a very moderate demand.

The depression was quite conspicuous in the closing hours of Wednesday's business and on Thursday, but on Friday there was a smart recovery on the indications pointing to reduced stocks at interior towns, through free shipments from them, and the large exports to Liverpool making a marked reduction in stocks at the ports. Friday the market was very unsettled. Prices turned upon the varying phases of the internal movement, but in the last hour declined under the report of the large overland movement for December.

The Chronicle's telegraphic weather reports from the south denote that the temperature has in general been somewhat higher, with rain in about all districts, but not excessive. The crop is being marketed freely.

GERMANS will not heretofore be taught in the public schools of St. Louis, and this is in the direction of reform. Germans who come here should immediately proceed to learn American.

New York's Defective Quarantine.

It would not be at all surprising to hear some fine morning that the city of New York was beset by some fearful epidemic. Its quarantine system is a disgrace and a menace to the health of the entire country. With ship loads of immigrants arriving every day, many of them from infected ports and localities in which contagious disease is prevalent, the utmost precaution should be exercised in the quarantine regulations governing the landing of these passengers. Inspection can not be too rigid and no risk whatever should be taken, in guarding against the planting of a single seed of contagion in the metropolis. It is more than a matter of local dread, as every city would be seriously threatened in case of an epidemic in New York.

That the quarantine system of the metropolis is a woful disgrace there can be no doubt. The doctors of the city have taken the matter in hand and through a committee composed of several of the best known among them, have reported the true state of affairs, and their investigation gives rise to no little apprehension concerning the possibility of an outbreak of some serious contagion, if something is not done to secure safety in an efficient system.

What is the cause of this dreadful state of affairs? Thomas C. Platt, once a United States senator, by the grace of God, and for which New York has dearly paid, was in 1880 appointed as one of the three state quarantine commissioners, the other two being appointed about the same time, and all for a term of three years. The law of the state provides that the commissioners shall hold office until their successors, appointed by the governor, shall be confirmed by the senate. When Boss Platt's term expired, a democratic governor nominated another man for his place and for those of his two colleagues, who were but his hands. Boss Platt immediately whipped the republican senate in line and made it reject the new appointees. He has succeeded in doing this ever since, and though his term of office expired nearly five years ago, he still holds on. The position is a valuable political prize, by virtue of the large patronage and the liberal fees directed by the commission.

From these fees Boss Platt contributes freely to the republican fund, and is able to control a majority of the republican senators, who in violation of their oath, refuse to act upon any nomination to their quarantine offices. The press and people of New York are justly indignant at this political prostitution of the office, which above all others, should be free from politics, and which Platt has used for personal ends at the threatened sacrifice of the city to contagion and disease, brought on by inefficient and corrupt quarantine management.

JAMES R. DAVIS, a colored man of Atlanta, has written a paper for the Church Review, entitled, "The Causes Leading to the Decay of Roman Eloquence." This is an ancient and a mouldy theme. Perhaps James could tell Halstead something about the decay of the republican party in the south.

Governor Brown's Speech.

We print elsewhere a very meagre synopsis of Senator Brown's speech, delivered in the senate yesterday. He spoke to a resolution offered by him at the opening of the session after the holiday recess, and his remarks attracted a great deal of attention.

It will be seen, even from the unsatisfactory synopsis which we present, that the senator treated the subject not only with great clearness and simplicity, but that he threw an entirely new light on the inquiry of the internal revenue system. THE CONSTITUTION has all along claimed that the system is undemocratic, and Senator Brown showed conclusively that Jefferson, the founder of the democratic party, was opposed to the laying of excise taxes, and was in favor of their repeal the moment the emergency that called them into existence had passed away.

We commend the synopsis, unsatisfactory as it is, to the attention of our readers. Practically, it leaves no ground for any true democrat to stand on in opposition to the repeal of the infamous excise laws.

Senator Brown shows that during the last twenty-two years the state of Georgia has paid into the United States treasury, on account of the internal revenue laws, a sum amounting to twenty-two and three-quarter millions of dollars, which is about one million of dollars a year paid by the people of Georgia under this system.

As the senator shows, if this tax had been paid into the state treasury, it would very nearly have met the expenses of the state. At any rate, it would have lessened and property of the farmers almost free from taxation. All this is fully explained in our telegraphic synopsis, and it is a matter of great concern to the people.

This is the democratic season. All Jeffersonian democrats are in favor of the repeal of the internal revenue laws.

The Poultry and Bench Show.

What a bewildering bow-wow and cackle the poultry and bench show presents. Such a sight was never seen in Georgia before. There are chickens that weigh twelve pounds, and chickens that weigh three to the pound. There are turkeys, ducks, geese, guineas, and every variety of feathered biped from a bronze gobbler weighing forty-nine pounds to a canary—a mere fluff of yellow—weighing less than an ounce.

As for the dogs, there is no end of them. Bull dogs and greyhounds, mastiffs and pug, poodles and setters, of every variety and degree. The method of exhibition is much better than ever before, wire cloth being drawn in front of each kennel.

In pet stock there are hundreds of pigeons, parrots, rabbits, guinea pigs and every variety of bird. Many of the specimens of poultry are imported from across the water. One Philadelphia breeder alone brings over 100 fowls.

The show is worthy in every respect. Indeed, the Atlanta show now ranks next to Indianapolis and New York. See its array of exhibits. Messrs. Wood, of Chicago, and Nevins, of Philadelphia, for poultry; Taylor, of Ohio, and Hochhorn, of New York, for dogs; and Ewald, of Cincinnati, for pigeons. These are the best and highest priced judges in the country, and their reputations draw the best of exhibitors. Our people should patronize this show liberally and repeatedly. A half-hour cannot be spent more pleasantly or profitably than in the poultry and bench show! Go, and carry your folks!

As a PARASITIC, Brother Blaine appears to take the cake.

An Enthusiastic Crank.

General Clinton B. Fisk, a prominent prohibition enthusiast, has gotten himself into hot water by one of his cranky freaks. At a great political prohibition rally subscriptions were called for to the general fund and a great many contributions were made. General Fisk, in an outburst of enthusiasm, announced that he would subscribe one hundred dollars "for Mrs. Cleveland." This was greeted with tremendous applause, as very naturally it should have been.

It turns out that the well known sentimental political prohibitionist gave the amount of his own accord and that Mrs. Cleveland knew nothing of it. General Fisk now explains that of course every body present understood that the subscription was his own, but was given in honor of Mrs. Cleveland not having offered wire to her New Year's guests, or something to that effect.

The general should be more careful how he uses other people's names in his political speeches. WHILE the republicans are looking around for a candidate, they should not forget Artibeus. Here is a man whose heart is full of fire and whose whiskers full of dye. He would make an admirable candidate.

The Barbed Wire Monopoly.

An interesting suit, involving millions of dollars, has recently been concluded in the United States court at Delaware, Iowa. By the decision of Judge Shreve the validity of the decision of Judge Shreve the validity of the barbed wire patents owned by the Washburn and Moen company, is nullified, and unless the supreme court, to which, of course, the wealthy complainants will appeal, reverses the decision, the days of the barbed wire monopoly are numbered.

The evidence in the case shows that Alvin Morey, an Iowa crank, who had been confined in an insane asylum, originated the idea of twisting wire around short steel bars and exhibited his invention at a county fair as far back as 1850. Fifteen years later another party obtained letters patent for the same design and sold them to the Washburn and Moen company, which has since had a monopoly in the manufacture of barbed wire and has made millions of dollars from it. The blacksmith who twisted Morey's barbs was put on the stand and in a few minutes constructed designs of the twist with which he made the original barbed wire. Morey's design was recently used by parties who proceeded to manufacture, and the suit was instituted by the Washburn and Moen company, who claimed infringement on their patent.

It seems as if their complaint is about to act as a boomerang.

Atlanta's Wet Town.

That Atlanta should have voted for prohibition two years ago and should now repudiate prohibition by a majority of 1,100 in the county is itself peculiar. It shows the presence of a voting population easily swayed, even where great principles are involved. To undo prohibition on a large county implies a strong conviction on the part of the people. And in a community where a large number of people are accustomed to drink, it is easy to see how the system of total abstinence, it would not be possible to alter their convictions in two years. ### Should the United States Encourage the Violation of State Laws?

From the New York Sun.

In the charge which Judge Speer, of the southern district of Georgia, delivered to the grand jury at Savannah on Wednesday last, an important portion of which appears in our Savannah letter this morning, there is a very interesting reference to the question of the enforcement of the laws of the United States and the liquor laws of Georgia.

Under those laws the sale of liquor is prohibited in certain counties of the state; and yet the internal revenue laws, which are enforced by the United States marshal, require the sale of liquor in the very counties.

The persons who apply for these licenses, announce thereby that their purpose is to break the law of the state, and to violate the laws of the United States. The matter was referred to a committee, which is expected to report next week.

Justice for the Mormons. OXANA, Ala., January 4.—Editors Constitution: In your comments upon Judge Curtis's views of the Mormons, you say: "The people of this country are not likely to forget that the Mormons have always been arrayed against our government." This is hardly correct. During the war with Mexico, 1846-7, the Mormons, as a denomination, furnished more volunteers to the United States service than did five of the New England states put together, including Vermont, the home of the great patriot, Senator Edmunds, and Maine, the home of the great patriot, Senator Sumner.

I suggest this correction, not that I care anything for the Mormons, but simply to affirm the truth of history. Yours truly, B. F. SAWYER.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

Hearing a Habeas Corpus Case—The February 9th Recess.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—The supreme court today gave notice that the court will adjourn for the annual February recess on the 19th of March. This is an earlier adjournment than has been customary. A decision rendered by the court today in the habeas corpus case of the mayor and city council of the city of Lincoln, Neb., who are now in custody of the United States marshal there, was postponed until the 19th of March. The mayor and city council proceeded to try for the alleged offense. He, pending the decision in his case, applied to the United States circuit court as a court of equity for a restraining order to stop the proceedings against him on the part of the mayor and city council. An injunction was granted, the mayor and council refused to obey it, and continued their trial of the accused judge, and finally removed the latter and appointed another person in his place. They were thereupon adjudged guilty of contempt of the order of the federal court and were committed to the custody of the United States marshal. They now appeal to this court for a release on a writ of habeas corpus. This court, in a long opinion by Mr. Justice Brandeis, sitting as chief justice, has no jurisdiction whatever over criminal cases or cases involving the appointment or removal of state and municipal officers. The proceedings of the federal court in Nebraska, therefore, were, from the beginning, in the nature of a usurpation of the functions of a court of law, were beyond its jurisdiction, and were null and void. The detention of the mayor and city council in custody is illegal, and they are entitled to a discharge.

AN ORDER BY THE SUPREME COURT.

General and Special Taxes Still Coming In—

The State Treasurer Kept Busy

Paying Small Warrants.

Nothing of a startling nature occurred in the departments yesterday.

The supreme court issued an order yesterday directed to Governor Gordon in which it was stated that Associate Justice Simmons was disqualified in the case of John J. Taylor vs. the Central Railroad and Banking company, the following general taxes by counties were recorded: McIntosh, $1,123; Chattooga, $300; Terrell, $1,500; Fulton, $5,000; Burke, $1,146, $1,147 in fees from the inspection of fermenters was recorded. Special taxes are still coming in small amounts.

In the DISTRICT COURT yesterday, Judge William Newman presiding, the case of Snodgrass & Co. vs. C. W. Gray & Co., was settled.

In the DISTRICT COURT a young man named Joseph Brown, of Elberton, charged with retailoring, was dismissed. The evidence showed that Brown ran a barroom in Elberton before the town went dry, and afterwards retailed liquor in his bedroom. It was also shown that he had been indicted three times for violation of the prohibition law. In each case he paid a fine of $50. The other cases were still pending. As Brown had been brought to trial on the charge of violation of the prohibition
